

The investigation was concluded with the fact that the Ebola virus is a very dangerous virus that can be transmitted among humans through close and direct physical contact with infected bodily fluids.

However, the virus can be detected through lab experiments from body fluid samples of someone who experiencing the discussed symptoms like Symptoms of impaired kidney and liver function. The virus can also be prevented from further spreading.